

November's Mountain Update from Catamount

Work is winding down all over the mountain as the beginning of the ski season is in sight. Excavators and bulldozers have finished most of their work on the mountain including the grading of the new trail from the summit of the Promenade Triple. The lift towers for the Promenade triple have been installed and work will continue in December preparing that lift for operation. Berkshire Lodge renovations are nearing completion alongside the construction of the new base lodge. New snow guns have been installed and new grooming equipment has arrived. Our routine work is just about done as lifts and snowmaking systems are ready to go.

We apologize in advance for the ongoing construction of the new base lodge during the season and appreciate your patience while our contractor works towards completion and minimizes any inconvenience to Catamount's skiers and riders.

We have a very cold forecast during Thanksgiving week and will make snow on several trails to get ready for the start of the season. Check the Snow Report page for updates early in December. We hope you have a great Thanksgiving Holiday with your family and friends. The winter season will be here soon we look forward to seeing you at Catamount.
